Thanks Pamela. I do take issue with claims 1 and 2 in the article you reference. We have done nothing cynical and the process being followed is the same anytime an interest group brings an issue before us. I myself did not see the language of the proposed petition until just a few days ago, and it is still unclear whether this petition will even be on the agenda for Monday. None of us know what's on the agenda until the Thursday evening before the Monday meeting, and we are not allowed by state law to deliberate on any matter with a quorum of our colleagues outside of
